Red China Claims Planes Of U. S. Bombed Embassy

TOKYO (AP) — Communist office of Peking's New China News Agency. It denounced the alleged attack as "a grave provocation" and said the United States will get "redoubled punishment for your crime."

Other Communist centers, ignoring repeated U.S. denials that the raids had been against targets, joined the controversy. North Vietnam's official news agency said American pilots fired rockets at the Red Chinese and Romanian embassies and that U.S. bombers attacked residential areas inside Hanoi and on its outskirts Tuesday and Wednesday.

The rally was to celebrate the claimed downing of 12 American planes in the raids, the news agency said. Glap said "it is clear that the U.S. aggressors have come to a blind alley. In attacking Hanoi, they hoped to shake the iron-like determination of our people in the north as well as in the south. But they have miscalculated. We are resolved to fight and fight till complete victory."

Hospital Gets $6,000 As Santosky Memorial

If anyone had told Jacqueline Santosky early last summer that the children and adults of the Mid-Hudson Valley area would eventually contribute more than $24,000 as a memorial fund in her name, she might have been inclined to express disbelief. Yet, even today, more than three months after the valiant young woman lost her fight for survival against what eventually became insurmountable odds, donations to the Jacqueline Santosky Fund still come in; have even slightly increased during the holiday season.

The U.S. Defense and State Departments have denied the charges. In Target Areas The U.S. military command in Saigon said: "A complete review of pilot reports and photographs showed that all ordnance expended by U.S. strike aircraft was in the military target areas (five miles south and six miles northeast of the city's center). None fell in the city of Hanoi." The targets those days were a truck park and railroad yard flanking the city.

Dutchess Crashes Take Lives of Three Drivers

By WALTER S. CLARK JR., Freeman Staff Writer With Christmas only a week away, Dutchess County authorities recorded three traffic deaths that occurred in that section of the Mid-Hudson Valley in less than 26 hours, boosting the death toll for 1966 to 48—six below the shocking total of 54 highway fatalities in Ulster County this year.

As the result of a fatal accident that occurred Friday afternoon just north of Poughkeepsie, a 45-year-old Columbia County truck driver was cited for reckless driving.

Give JFK Book Printers 10 Days to Make Reply

NEW YORK (AP) — A Manhattan judge indicated today a speedy decision on Mrs. John F. Kennedy's suit to block publication of author William Manchester's book about the assassination of the president. Supreme Court Justice Saul S.

Streit, ranking Manhattan justice, ordered Manchester and two publishers to appear before him Dec. 27 to show cause why an injunction against the book, "Death of a President," should not be granted. Streit said he would "decide the matter shortly" after the hearing.

that if Mrs. Kennedy is upheld, a substitute Jan. 10 issue would not be published. He said there was not enough time to prepare another issue. Also involved are plans for publication of the work abroad in book and serial form. Mrs. Manchester's attorney, Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, said the matter "shortly" after the hearing.

See Power Of Future In A-Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) The government's proposed atom smasher may hold the key to whether science can ultimately hope to tap a hypothetical source of energy vastly more powerful than that loosed by hydrogen bombs. Such a titanic force could come from still-undiscovered — but theorized — subnuclear particles called quarks.

U. N. Adopts Sanctions On Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council has adopted mandatory economic sanctions for the first time in U.N. history in a move to bring down Rhodesia's white minority government. But failure to provide for enforcement machinery immediately raised doubts that the boycott would work.

Driver Loses Control

Sergeant Schlegel said Bielecki was traveling south on the highway south of Poughkeepsie when he apparently lost control. His car crossed the solid double white line and entered the northbound lane where it was in head-on collision with the northbound vehicle operated by Puzio.

Coppolino Freed On Bail, Hiding Until Feb. Trial

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Dr. Carl Coppolino, out of jail for the first time in nearly six months, was in seclusion with his wife today at a secret hide-away. The 34-year-old anesthesiologist returned from Freehold, N.J. Friday after being acquitted of a murder charge in the 1963 death of a former New Jersey neighbor.

List File Dates For Over 65 Tax Relief in Esopus

Application forms are now available in the town of Esopus for tax relief for persons over 65 residing in the town. Jack Reynolds, chairman of the Esopus Board of Assessors, at the December meeting of the town board, said the forms will be available from Jan. 1 to May 1 from either the town clerk or from a member of the board of assessors. Applications must be filed with the board assessors.

Mention Beacon As Possible Site Of A-Power Plant

An official of Consolidated Edison Co., said Friday he hoped a nuclear power plant could be constructed in New York City by the middle of the 1970's, and also mentioned the Beacon area of Dutchess County as another site. The Associated Press reported M. L. Waring senior vice president of the utility, commented as he resumed the witness stand at a Federal Power Commission hearing in Washington, D.C. on the utility's application for a license to construct a hydroelectric power plant on the Hudson River shore at Cornwall.

3 Unions Support Machinist Strike Against Mohawk

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Three area unions have given their support to a strike by machinists against Mohawk Airlines, the nation's largest regional carrier. The Greater Utica Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, The International Trade Federation, and the Transport Workers Union of America pledged their "full support" Friday night to the strike, in its second week.

Shower Leaflets On Hanoi, Delta Asking Surrender

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — American planes showered Hanoi and the Red River delta with millions of surrender leaflets today. A U. S. spokesman said Air Force planes dropped nearly 2.5 million leaflets calling on the young men of North Vietnam "to leave your unit when you are sent south" and to enjoy "good treatment from the allied forces." The leaflet drop was carried (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Report Robbery, Theft of Furs In Newburgh Area

If Christmas means giving and receiving elsewhere in the country these days, the holiday season reversed itself Friday evening down in Newburgh, where the spirit of taking apparently reigned supreme. State Police in Orange County were looking for two armed robbers, who ignored the Yuletide decorations in the window, robbed a liquor store of some $200. At the same time, Newburgh City Police were seeking clues to the identity of a person or persons unknown, who found $3,000 worth of mink furs and sweaters too much to resist.

Ellenville Navy Pilot Killed In Bombing Run at Hanoi

Ulster County lost its fifth serviceman in Vietnam this year when Navy Lieutenant Michael T. Newell of Ellenville met his death in the skies over Hanoi Wednesday. The 25-year-old flyer was serving his third tour of duty in Vietnam and was stationed aboard the USS Ticonderoga. He and another Navy pilot were shot down on a bombing raid over Hanoi. An Air Force pilot also downed in the same raid was able to eject from his aircraft. Bodies of the two Navy men were not recovered.

GOP Governors Warn Party Cannot Rely On Drop in LBJ Popularity for '68 Win

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — Influential Republican governors said today Republicans cannot count on President Johnson's current drop in popularity to carry their party to victory in the 1968 presidential race. Michigan Gov. George Romney, a top prospect for the GOP, said his party must offer the voters two years from now "a basic change in direction" instead of relying on a protest vote against Johnson's "Great Society" programs or on frustrations about the war in Vietnam.

"The basic issue in 1968 will be whether the people themselves are going to reclaim the direction of this government or whether it will continue to be run solely from Washington," Romney said. Agreeing generally with this, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller discounted in a separate interview the harsh indictments Democratic state executives have drawn against Johnson during the National Governors' Conference here.

Some Democratic governors pictured Johnson as the over-spending architect of their party's defeat in the November elections. Rockefeller, who won re-election in that balloting, said it was his feeling that local conditions dictated the outcome of the elections, "rather than some absent political personality" — Johnson in this case. As for some Democrat suggestions that their party may have to seek a new face in 1968 unless Johnson mends his ways, Rockefeller said Republicans would be foolish to put any confidence in current public opinion polls which rank the President at a low point. "After all," he said, "I was lower in the polls than the President ever has been and I won."

Some of the Democratic governors who had vented their political spleen on Johnson seemed to be having second thoughts. Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa, who voiced some harsh criticisms of the President after a midnight Democratic caucus over which he presided, said he and other dissidents expect to meet with the President "sometime after Christmas" at his Texas ranch.

This meeting appeared to be the President's quiet rejoinder to the sharp words flung at him from this snow-blanketed resort. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 6)

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Fearful Herod has a scheme . . .

. . . The wise men betray Him not.

THE CHRISTMAS STORY—III

The star of Bethlehem guided not only the shepherds to the manger where Christ was born nearly 2000 years ago, but three wise men. Arriving at Jerusalem they went to King Herod and asked "Where is he that is born king of the Jews, for we have seen his star in the East and have come to worship him."

This was news to Herod and he was much disturbed by it, lest his own power be endangered. Cunningly he sent the wise men to Bethlehem, telling them to find the Babe and then report back to him so that he might go and worship also.

The wise men were warned in a dream of his treachery, however, and did not return to Jerusalem after worshipping with great joy at the manger.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 17, 1966

Now that we have had a taste of winter and an idea of what to expect in the months immediately ahead, officials in charge of our streets and highways should bestir themselves to prepare for adequate handling of snow and ice.

The problem of dangerous streets and roads from snow and ice can be met by a carefully planned system, which among other things calls for prompt action and intelligent use of manpower and equipment. One method of efficient snow removal before the streets become blocked with snow is to battle storms while they are in progress. Waiting until the streets are buried under huge drifts is not the efficient way to operate as we know from experience.

The same is true of icy conditions. Don't wait until there is a big tie-up on hills and grades or there are several crashes of motor vehicles before sanding the streets. Knowledge of local conditions and experience in past years should help in determining how to tackle the job.

Before we get all tangled up with storms, let's plan now to handle them.

INDIA AND THE BOMB

India has been much in the news of late because of food shortages which have brought hunger and even death by starvation to many of its people. This state of affairs, not uncommon on the sub-continent, underscores what is potentially one of the great ironies of our time.

There is a growing chance that India, despite its food crisis and its many other problems of rising population and inadequate resources, will become the next member of the international "nuclear club." Communist China's nuclear explosions have increased pressures within the Indian government for development of its own bomb to deter nuclear attack from the north.

One might suppose that India, a relatively backward nation, could not hope to produce an atomic bomb. The fact is that India is already turning out plutonium in substantial amounts, and that it has the industrial capacity to produce necessary supporting equipment and power. Nor does it lack the know-how. Open literature on the subject makes available most of the once secret knowledge required.

Also, money is no longer the obstacle it once was. Developing a bomb would cost only a fraction of what the United States spent on its first bomb. Crude nuclear weapons, in short, are within India's reach. They might be produced in 18 months or so once the decision to proceed was made.

Tragic as such a decision would be in a country whose people are starving, pressure for it is rising. The only real hope of averting India's—and perhaps other nations'—addition to the list of powers with nuclear capability lies in agreement on a non-proliferation treaty.

NEW LOOK AT UFOS

Most scientists have long shrugged off the subject of unidentified flying objects as one not warranting serious attention. In recent months, however, the topic has acquired a certain respectability in the scientific community.

This is true in no small part because so eminent a scientist as Dr. Edward U. Condon, former director of the National Bureau of Standards, has undertaken to direct a thorough investigation of UFOs by a team of his colleagues at the University of Colorado. Scientists are becoming less and less inclined to say flatly, as they have often said in the past, that the UFOs are figments of a dream and imagination not worth study except perhaps by psychologists. They are belatedly remembering the very basis of the scientific method, which requires that no possibility can be dismissed until all available evidence has been carefully weighed.

The case for such a weighing of evidence has been strongly made by Dr. J. Allen Hynek, the chairman of the department of astronomy at Northwestern University. There is a certain irony in that, since Hynek has for the past 18 years been the Air Force's scientific consultant on the UFO problem. The Air Force has been reluctant to devote much attention to the matter,

Global View

By LEON DENNEN

Foreign News Analyst

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (NEA) — The usual fear of a loss in American prestige—this time in Africa—is ostensibly the reason why the U. S. State Department probably will back economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Yet it is still to be proven that this sort of policy has gained a single friend for the United States among the African states.

Most African delegates in the United Nations consider sanction against Rhodesia an evasion of the real issue which, in their view, is the immediate overthrow of Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel government.

In their view, "American colonialists" are merely trying to extricate Britain from a difficult situation.

Would it not be wiser for the United States to stay neutral and work for moderation in the dispute?

One of the illusions of our time is that it is possible for one side in an international dispute to win unconditionally.

After all, Britain maintains friendly relations with the United States despite the fact that Prime Minister Wilson's government trades with Red China and North Vietnam. Surely the white Rhodesians' fight for independence and survival is hardly a greater crime that calls for unconditional surrender.

Unfortunately, the State Department's diplomats, Ambassador Goldberg included, are so obsessed with the myth of "prestige" that they fail to face Rhodesian realities.

They still regard Rhodesia's independence as a "rebellion." They refuse to acknowledge that Smith's government is an accomplished fact and that it can be overthrown only by military force. Competent observers assert economic sanctions, however drastic, will no longer bring down the Smith government since Portugal and South Africa will not co-operate with the United Nations. In their view, sanctions will only succeed in uniting the white Rhodesians.

Military action would surely provoke South Africa and inflame all of Africa.

Yet even a "moderate" African statesman like Tanzania's President Nyerere insists that suspicion about British and American sincerity can be eliminated only by the crushing defeat of the Smith regime.

One young African diplomat in the U. N. was more blunt: "Britain and the United States must destroy Ian Smith even if they have to use force."

The same diplomat assailed the United States bitterly for employing military force in Vietnam.

There is no compelling reason for the United States to pull Prime Minister Wilson's political chestnuts out of the fire, a wiser and more realistic policy would be for the United States to exert its influence on Britain and Rhodesia to continue negotiations for a peaceful solution.

Your Dental Health

Bruxists Drive Bedmates

Batty with Tooth-Grinding

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Dr. Lawrence: My wife drives me nuts with her constant clicking and grinding all night long. Sounds like our washing machine going through all its cycles. Can't something be done about this?

Answer: Clicking, grinding and clenching are symptoms of bruxism. It's a nervous habit and drives a large majority of us nuts. Those who grind are not prone to admit it, or don't even know they do it.

It's a destructive habit, too. It breaks teeth, loosens them, is a cause of periodontal disease, or at least is usually associated with it and results in injury to the hinge joint with accompanying aches and pains.

It builds up tension in muscles and ligaments around the joint. You bruxists know this feeling when you awake in the morning and feel as though you've spent the night picking up weights with your teeth.

There is a group of dentists who think that tension in the hinge joint produces other tensions, and pain, in other parts of the body, such as headaches, backaches, dizziness, leg cramps, profuse sweating, sleeplessness, you name it.

There's no simple way to stop bruxism. Psychoanalysis may be effective but the cure is often worse than the disease. Dosing oneself with tranquilizers, phenobarbital, and sleep-producing drugs, may be useful, but bruxism seems to defy almost everything but tranquility—and who's ever been blessed with that?

In a small percentage of patients causes may be local in origin and can be cured by correcting the bite: producing harmony between opposing teeth.

Certain habits are usually associated with bruxism: sticking out the jaw; pushing tongue against teeth and palate; and pipe smoking, nail biting and pencil chewing. Break up this pattern, some say, and you may kick the bruxist habit.

Since bruxism occurs more frequently during sleep, bedtime is when to change the rules. Begin by lying on your back and relaxing. It always seems presumptuous for a doctor to ask a patient keyed up with the day's emotional trials to relax, yet a conscious effort must be made to loosen muscle tension, especially in jaw muscles.

When they're relaxed, lower jaw should be in "rest position." If you can't find rest position, try this wet your lips with your tongue; swallow; open jaw until lips are slightly parted; then close, but only enough to allow lips to barely touch.

If you do this correctly you'll find that your teeth are not in contact, your tongue is resting on the floor of your mouth; your jaw in rest position.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

and has been charged with unduly minimizing it. But Dr. Hynek's views are important, both because of his scientific reputation and because he probably knows more about the UFOs than any other man.

From this vantage point, he says all possible explanation of UFO phenomena "deserve serious consideration." Many will join him in saying, "Now after a delay of 18 years, the Air Force and American science are about to try for the first time, really, to discover what, if anything, we can believe about 'flying saucers.'"

PSYCHOLOGY OF MORE

Asked why his shop always had more customers than his competitor, a British candy store proprietor replied:

"Nothing to it. In the other place they always put too many sweets in the scales and then take some away. Here we put in too few and then add some."

Everything went as planned in the presidential operations—and they didn't hurt nearly as much as that other operation on November 8.

Well, It's That Time of Year!

NORTHEAST THAILAND

(NEA)—It was growing dark on the road. The Thai I was with took his suitcase out of the front seat of the car, opened it and piece by piece took out the part of a rifle and began fitting them together.

He loaded the weapon, then reached into the suitcase again and brought out a revolver. He laid it on the seat of the car between us and set a box of cartridges beside the revolver.

"These are new cartridges," he said. "I have to get fresh ones frequently because they deteriorate in this climate."

"If someone tries to attack us, start firing. Just keep firing whether you hit anything or not. Enough noise and I think they'll go away."

We were on a road we were told we shouldn't be on after dark. By day, there was considerable military traffic. But the traffic died out at night. There were burned-out bodies of cars and trucks along the road. There had been attacks by bands of men.

We picked up speed despite the worsening condition of the road.

The next morning my Thai friend and I met with a police captain.

He said, "Go down into that country with you? Are you crazy? I have a wife and child. The last policeman who went down there . . . they cut off his arms and his tongue."

"Oh, I'll go all right if you let me go my way. I'll send a Jeep ahead full of armed men. I'll come a half mile behind. But that's the only way I'll go."

Up here in northeast Thailand the situation is worse than has been pictured.

There are roads no sensible man will travel day or night and villages into which he will not go unless he's with an armed party. There are villages whose chiefs are Communists' men. There are hills where no one goes unless he's a guerrilla.

Terrorists kill officials and teachers. My friend and I went by a police station, a band of men had attacked. Some of the attackers were armed with better weapons than the police (Belgian-made and new).

Despite the persistent, effective terrorism, the Communist underground does not yet have political, economic or military control of the rural population, even in the far northeast.

They do not have effective Communist local government or an area tax collecting system. They do not control rural trade.

The Communists are still in the organizational stage of recruiting, infiltrating and terrorism. Their first aim is to destroy the government's local power. Their second aim is to destroy the confidence of the local people in the power of the government either to protect and help them or to punish them if they follow the Reds.

The Red ability at effective terrorism is limited to a relatively small area occupied by less than a half million people.

Through the northeast, the Communists are about as far along as the Viet Cong were in South Vietnam six to eight years ago.

In short, the problem is not yet a military problem. It is a government, economic, police problem.

To bring this area under effective government control requires radical improvement in district administrators, village chiefs, local policemen. It requires agricultural self-help programs that would give the northeastern Thai farmer a chance to improve himself. It needs psychological programs that would make the people of the area more conscious of their Thai heritage and of their role as citizens.

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The business boom has lost more of its zip.

Statistics announced during the week reflected the economy's slower pace.

Production Down

Industrial production declined, the gain in personal income slowed, the cutback in automobile production spread, automobile sales dropped, steel output dipped, retail sales fell, and wholesale prices declined.

Statistics said this wasn't all bad news. They said the developments show that the economy is returning to a much more sustainable pace after a worrisome surge earlier this year.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that industrial production declined in November as steel and auto output fell.

The production index declined 0.3 point to 158.3 per cent of the 1957-59 average from October's record level.

The decline was the largest drop since the 0.8-point decline in September 1965.

Note Decline

Iron and steel production, the report showed, declined for the fourth consecutive month. At 134 per cent, the iron and steel index was down 3 points from the month before.

Auto production fell more steeply, to 167 per cent in November from 177.8 per cent in October.

Ford Motor Co. and American Motors Corp. joined General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. in announcing production cutbacks over the next few weeks because of lagging sales.

Ford will reduce December and January production scheduled by about 22,000 cars.

Personal Income

American Motors said it would cut back production in the next two weeks, but gave no figures.

New car sales in the first 10 days of December fell 11 per cent from a year earlier. Deliveries totaled 222,931, down from 249,394 the year before.

Income at Record

Personal income in November was at a record annual rate of $597.6 billion, up $3.2 billion, but the advance was narrower than the $4.4 billion rise in October.

Steel production dropped for the week to its lowest level since last January. Indications were that it would continue to fall in the coming week and some mills expected no recovery for the rest of December.

Output declined 2.2 per cent to 2,383,000 tons from 2,436,000 tons the previous week.

The decline reduced industry output to 71.4 per cent of estimated capacity from 73 per cent the week before.

The Commerce Department reported that retail sales in November dropped 1 per cent from the October level. Sales were estimated at $25,413,000,000, down from October's $25,641,000,000, which was slightly below the $25,703,000,000 of September.

Auto Sales Down

The department said the decline was due chiefly to lower auto sales, which declined to $4,806,000,000 from $5,096,000,000 in October.

Wholesale prices declined in November to 105.9 per cent of the 1957-59 average from 106.2 per cent in October, which had brought the first drop in about two years.

The wholesale price index continued to decline early this month, falling to 105.7 Dec. 6. The latest decline involved farm products, processed food, meats and industrial goods.

While many food, vegetable and some meat prices rose, a relatively steep drop in the farm products index was brought by declines for steers, choice calves, hogs and some chickens and eggs.

Business inventories increased in October at a faster pace than in September, the ed.

At a record $132.2 billion at the end of October, inventories were up by $1.34 billion, compared with the $820 million rise in September and an average $1 billion increase in the earlier months of the year.

County Planners Set Annual Meet For Monday Night

At the annual meeting of the Ulster County Planning Board Monday evening the annual report of the Planning Board will be presented and officers of the board elected for 1967. Officers for the past year were Benjamin Webster, elected to fill the unexpired term of Ralph Brach who resigned in September; Wilbur Peters, vice-chairman; and Gifford Beal, secretary.

John Scribano of Rochester will speak on progress of the county's application for financial assistance to prepare a comprehensive county plan for Ulster County. Beal is expected to present.

By-Laws to be Discussed sent new board by-laws for discussion. And Ray Cruthers is expected to describe recent progress on the inter-municipal water study.

New business will include discussion of an application for the preparation of a State financed county-wide sewerage needs study. Irving Oltmann, Chairman of the Health and Sanitation Committee, will present the application for the Board's approval and signature.

The application, once approved by the State, will provide for the preparation of a study and report to determine the feasibility of providing complete sewerage services in the more developed areas of the county and provide preliminary estimates of the cost of various engineering alternatives.

The State requires such studies be based on a drainage basin concept, not political boundaries, and be geared toward inter-municipal cooperation and coordination where feasible. The State pays all costs of the study. The county-wide study will not duplicate previous studies already made or contracted for in the county.

Decide Details Later
Details of the study will be decided at a later date by the Ulster County Planning Board, Ulster County Health Department, Engineers yet to be selected, and representatives from the State Health Department sometime next year.

The proposed sewerage needs study, along with the current inter-municipal county-wide water study will insure Ulster's municipalities eligibility for most aid programs relating to water-sewer facility development.

by the organization last summer. As the result of the survey, the existing fire insurance rates in the Port Jervis area are maintained. The report also included a number of recommendations to improve fire fighting efficiency in the district.

Discuss River
A letter was received from the Hudson River Valley Commission in which they asked for information on the location of old barge hulks and other marine derelicts along the shores of the river and its tributaries.

The Commission is planning a program for cleaning up the Hudson waterfront, including the removal of marine debris. Reports were made on the various steps underway to preserve, if possible, local history landmarks. Motioned was the formation of the committee to preserve Perrine's Bridge at Rifton, meetings with the Hudson River Valley Commission on efforts to preserve the Esopus Meadows Lighthouse, and the work of a local committee that is making a listing of all houses in the Township built prior to 1850. The latter project is being undertaken as part of a program of the Ulster County Planning Board and locally is under the direction of the Town Historian, Mrs. Oakley Maynard.

Improve Streams
Superintendent of Highways Paul Mercier was authorized to enter into an agreement with the State Conservation Department for stream improvement work. The agreement is being entered into in connection with the project to be undertaken in 1967 on a bridge on the Floyd Acker Road in the West Park area.

DeVall H. Dunbar, building inspector, reported the issuance of seven building permits during the month with a total valuation of the work undertaken of $71,000. The permits covered two new houses, one warehouse and four alterations projects.

The Port Jervis Board of Water Commissioners reported that the average daily water consumption in the district during November had been 198,733 gallons.

Fire Inspections
Harry Mains, town fire marshal, reported on 14 inspection trips made by him during October and November. During Fire Prevention Week, Marshal Mains conducted fire drills at the Port Jervis School, the Rifton School, the Christian Brothers and St. Cabrini Schools at West Park, and at the Society of Brothers at Rifton.

A number of usual year-end transfers between accounts were authorized to provide funds where there were insufficient balances to carry a particular account through to the end of the year. Also executed was a bonding resolution in the amount of $24,500 to pay for a new snow removal truck and plow ordered in September and delivered to Superintendent Mercier last week.

Named Botany Bay
Capt. Cook, its discoverer, named Australia's Botany Bay for the many kinds of plants growing on the shores.

Give JFK Book

Kennedy said she understood that Manchester had granted Michael Joseph, Ltd., of London the right to publish the book in England.

In a related development, Dell Books offered $1 million Friday to Harper & Row for the book's paperback rights. Donald Fine, editor-in-chief of Dell Books, said he believed this was the largest offer ever made for paperback rights.

Destroy Rights
In her court petition, Mrs. Kennedy said "The threatened publication is in total disregard of my rights and, if it goes forward, will utterly destroy them."

One of the most important issues centered around whether Manchester and the publishers had permission from the Kennedys to publish.

In the affidavit supporting her petition, Mrs. Kennedy said that in return for her help in preparing his manuscript, Manchester agreed not to publish until he obtained "my express consent and approval as to the mode, time and text of any publication."

She said she had not given her consent. In his supporting affidavit, Sen. Kennedy said that he had not cleared the manuscript.

Mrs. Kennedy gave Manchester two lengthy interviews and about 10 hours of tape recordings. Friends of the late president's wife say she made no attempt at self-censorship in the interviews and that she had revealed her deepest thoughts.

A highly placed official in President Kennedy's administration has said that in the interviews "it's clear that Manchester took stuff from the tape recorder when Mrs. Kennedy was not in control of her emotions."

LBJ Looks Bad
"Also," the official added in an interview Friday, "the book presents a rather unfortunate picture of President Johnson."

In the court action, Mrs. Kennedy expressed her foremost objection to the book this way: "I am shocked that Mr. Manchester would exploit the emotional state in which I recounted my recollections to him early in 1964."

Three clauses in an 11-point memorandum signed by Manchester and Sen. Kennedy March 26, 1964, are involved in the issue as to whether the defendants had permission from the Kennedys to publish. The memorandum was one of five documents filed in court by attorneys for Mrs. Kennedy.

The three clauses call for the review of the complete manuscript by the Kennedys, but no adaptation of the manuscript for film or television and forbid publication before Nov. 22, 1968.

Harper & Row has said that Sen. Kennedy told Manchester in a telegram last July that "members of the Kennedy family will place no obstacle in the way of publication of his book."

Manchester assured the publishers of Look in a written "renewal" last August that the Kennedys family had approved publication.

A copy of the agreement, which calls for the payment of $665,000 to the author for world serialization rights by Cowles Communications, was filed as an exhibit Friday by the lawyers for Mrs. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy's court petition gave no clues to what portions of her 1964 interviews with Manchester she objected to. A publishing official—not one of the defendants—who has read Manchester's book commented: "I think Mrs. Kennedy is just having second thoughts that she was too emotional and outspoken in her interview with Manchester. She never asked to see the manuscript. I think it is too bad. She has been ill advised."

Report Robbery

box containing the furs and fur-trimmed sweaters was removed from the car, parked directly across the street. Entrance to the automobile had been gained by prying open the right vent window.

According to authorities, the box reportedly contained three mink-trimmed sweaters, valued at more than $200 each; one light grey mink stole worth $600; and two autumn haze mink stoles, also worth approximately $600 each.

Police today reported no leads concerning the seven missing pieces of ladies' finery or who was responsible for their disappearance.

Tests on Ruby Cancer May Take About Five Weeks

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Specialists estimate it will be two to four weeks before they can tell how Jack Ruby is responding to chemical treatment for cancer.

They reported Friday that the condition of the man who killed Lee Harvey Oswald appears to have stabilized and he is "quite comfortable" at Parkland Hospital.

Ruby, 35, was moved there from the county jail a week earlier. After extensive tests, doctors started administering injections of a drug known as 5-Fluorouracil.

A spokesman for the Southwestern Medical School team attending Ruby said 5-Fluorouracil first used in 1961, has achieved long-term remission in similar cases.

The doctors said there are indications that Ruby's malignancy may have originated in the air sacs of a lung or in a duct of the pancreas. It is a form known as adenocarcinoma which occurs in about 5 of 100 cases of lung cancer.

Dutchess Crashes

authorities said. Puzio was treated and rushed to Vassar Hospital by Sloper-Willen ambulance. He suffered fractures of the left arm, right leg and internal injuries. His condition was listed as serious.

Vehicles Crash Headon
Fisher was injured fatally shortly before 1 p. m. Friday when his car was involved in a violent head-on crash on Route 9 at the entrance to the Hudson River State Hospital, Town of Poughkeepsie.

Town Police Lieut. David Cundy told The Freeman Fisher's car was in collision with a cement-loaded tractor-trailer operated by Rodney Peck, 45, of 111 Green Street, Hudson, and owned by the Schwerman Trucking Co., of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Peck was cited by Detective Lieut. Richard Hellman on a reckless driving charge. The summons is returnable Dec. 28 before Town Peace Justice Lyle Quick.

Crash Near Hospital
Cundy said Peck was driving south on Route 9 (North Road) when he came upon two cars that were stopped on the highway ahead of him waiting to make a left turn into the Hudson River State Hospital grounds.

Cundy reported that Peck pulled out to avoid the stopped vehicles and the tractor-trailer was in head-on collision with the northbound vehicle driven by Fisher.

Fisher was pronounced dead at the scene. Death was due to a fractured skull, broken neck and internal injuries.

Meurer was killed at 11:55 p. m. Thursday when his 1965 car went out of control on Salt Point Turnpike near West Road, Town of Pleasant Valley, careened off the pavement and slammed into a large tree.

Meurer was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. John W. LaCelle of Pleasant Valley. Death was due to a broken neck.

Death Ruled Accident
Dr. William G. Thompson, Rhinebeck, an assistant Dutchess County medical examiner, investigated the fatality with Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Borchers, and gave a preliminary finding of accidental death pending a formal inquest to be held later before Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding of Wappingers Falls.

Meurer was well known in the Hudson Valley district and had offices at 3 New Market Street, Poughkeepsie.

U.N. Adopts . . .

amendments, the council refused to deplore Portuguese and South African "support to the rebel regime," to deplore Britain's refusal to use force against that regime and to invite Britain to use "all means" in preventing oil from reaching Rhodesia.

Coal Not Added
It also refused to add coal and manufactured goods to Britain's list of exports for boycott — asbestos, iron ore, chrome, pig-iron, sugar, tobacco, copper, meat, meat products, hides, skins and leather.

But through the amendments the council adopted it bound all members to prevent their nationals, land or air transport facilities or flag vessels from aiding supply oil to Rhodesia and it called on all countries to deny Rhodesia economic or financial aid. Finally, it asked U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to report back by next March 1 on "the progress of the implementation of this resolution."

Chief S. O. Adebayo of Nigeria said force was essential and expressed fear that the resolution would prove futile.

Britain's stated goal is majority rule in that central African land, where Negroes outnumber whites about four million to a quarter million.

Returned Dec. 5
The British brought the Rhodesia case back to the council Dec. 5a after Smith turned down last-ditch compromise proposals.

Britain is admittedly fearful of losing its large trade with South Africa, to the disadvantage of the pound sterling.

Both South African and Portugal, which are the chief suppliers of oil to Rhodesia, have said they will not abide by the council resolution.

Names in The News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cardinal on Tour
NEW YORK (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, 78-year-old military vicar, leaves New York tonight for his annual Christmas visit to U.S. military installations abroad, including Vietnam.

The head of the New York Roman Catholic archdiocese visited Vietnam last Christmas. He will be making his 16th consecutive Christmas tour.

Prince Home for Holiday
LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles returned home to London Friday for the Christmas holidays with the news that like his father, Prince Philip, before him he will be head boy of his school, Gordonstoun.

Prince Charles, at 18 one of the oldest boys at Gordonstoun, will take over as captain of the Scottish school when he returns for his last term before going to Cambridge University, he was selected by Headmaster Frank Chew.

Jackie Cancels Ski Trip
SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has called off plans to spend a Christmas-New Year's skiing holiday with her two children at the Sun Valley, Idaho, resort where she spent the holiday last year.

Mrs. Kennedy had reservations starting Dec. 26. A resort spokesman said she canceled last Friday, but no reason was given.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and his family still have reservations at Sun Valley beginning Dec. 21.

Warren Envis Son
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "I really envy him at being able to sit on a court of first instance, where he can see the witnesses and hear them talk," said U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren.

He was talking about his son, Earl Jr., 36, to whom he administered the oath of office Friday as a Sacramento municipal court judge.

See Power . . .

United States should build its proposed $375-million atom smasher, Weston, Ill., was selected Friday as site of the device.

The Atomic Energy Commission has neither confirmed nor denied that its huge machine might settle once and for all whether quarks exist. But its scientists have indicated repeatedly that a machine of such energy, 200 billion electron volts, BEV, would offer an indefinite time for tapping the secrets of matter.

The atom smasher is designed to explore the fundamental forces of matter by accelerating subnuclear "bullets" — such as protons and electrons — to speeds approaching the velocity of light — 186,000 miles a second — and imparting tremendous energy to them.

The projectiles then crash through the nuclei, or hearts of atoms, of various target chemicals.

Explain System
The Weston machine would be a system of four different accelerators, one feeding another in series.

In each of the first three units of the system, the subnuclear projectiles — protons — would be successively sped to higher and higher energies by magnetic and other forces.

Then, the "bullets" would be injected into the main ring measuring a mile in diameter. The main ring — called a synchrotron — would consist of a ring of 500 magnets surrounding a slender vacuum tube about the size of a man's arm. The tube would comprise the race-track for the projectiles.

The entire device would be covered by at least 20 feet of earth as a shield against radiation leakage. The general public would not be allowed within 500 feet of the machine. Heavy shielding also would be provided for scientists working in the area.

3 Unions Support

why it should not be enjoined from what the company calls unlawful picketing.

Five hundred mechanics, members of the IAM lodge, struck the airline at midnight Dec. 8 in a dispute over pension-plan payments.

The company reports that the walkout already has cost Mohawk $300,000 in wages and revenue.

Accuse Strikers
Thursday night, Mohawk officials had a show-case order served on William Scheir, president of Local Lodge 75, and Peter Paul, it accused strikers of "blocking airport entrances, intimidating or threatening non-strikers and damaging or mutilating property."

The order was returnable Friday, but Judge J. Robert Lynch of State Supreme Court granted an adjournment at the request of the union.

Friday night, Scheir said the union has and always will conduct picketing in an orderly manner.

Shower Leaflets

out while a worldwide dispute still raged over American air raids on the North Vietnamese capital area earlier this week.

Communist China claimed its embassy in Hanoi was seriously damaged by the raids, and the North Vietnamese said more than 100 civilians were killed.

The United States has repeatedly denied any bombs fell in Hanoi itself in the raids Tuesday and Wednesday.

The U.S. military command has reported no raids near Hanoi since then, although American planes have struck at other targets in the Communist north. U. S. B52 bombers struck this afternoon at a North Vietnamese base camp and supply area in the demilitarized zone, a U.S. spokesman reported. It was the fourth time this week the giant, Guam-based jet bombers hit in the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

Minor Action
In fighting in South Vietnam, U. S. headquarters listed only minor action but Vietnamese headquarters unit of the Vietnamese 9th Infantry Battalion was badly mauled early today by a Viet Cong mortar and ground attack in the Mekong Delta.

A Vietnamese spokesman said a company of an infantry battalion — estimated between 60 and 100 men — suffered heavy casualties in the enemy attack 66 miles southwest of Saigon.

Six U. S. Navy river patrol boats sped to support the unit but reports indicated they did not engage the Viet Cong during the two-hour attack. Viet Cong casualties were not known, the government spokesman said.

In the air offensive against North Vietnam, U.S. spokesmen reported bad weather in the Hanoi area Friday and American bombing planes hit mostly at targets in the west near Dien Bien Phu and in the southern coastal part of the country.

Weather Bad
Unofficial reports said the poor weather prevailed today also to keep U.S. planes away from military targets in the Hanoi area for a third day since the controversial raids in mid-week.

A U.S. spokesman said the leaflets were dropped over Hanoi and the Red River delta by using a "wind drift" method, explaining that the leaflets planes did not need to fly over Hanoi but let the wind carry the leaflets there.

The leaflets, addressed to "Young Men of North Vietnam," said: "Be ready to leave your unit when you are sent south. Be ready to enjoy good treatment by the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam and allied forces. Be ready to live to enjoy life in free Vietnam or return home some day."

Elsewhere, U.S. Marines patrolling in the northern provinces reported killing 23 Communist soldiers in scattered small unit contacts Friday.

61 Missions
In the weather-curtailed air strikes over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots flew 61 missions involving about 180 individual sorties.

Air Force pilots reported destroying two bridges in the vicinity of Dien Bien Phu and damaging four more in the same general area. They also reported cutting off five highways around Dien Bien Phu, the old imperial capital near the Laotian border.

Carrier-based Navy pilots, concentrating on base traffic along the southern coast of North Vietnam, reported damaging seven of the water craft.

The B52 raid on the demilitarized zone this afternoon was the third strike of the day for the eight-engine bombers. Before dawn today, a formation of B52s hit a Communist infiltration route 55 miles northwest of Qui Nhon on the central coast of South Vietnam and another formation struck at a Viet Cong base camp 32 miles north-northwest of Saigon.

308 Sorties
In air action Friday over South Vietnam, U.S. pilots flew 393 strike sorties and claimed damage or destruction of 275 enemy huts, structures and fortified positions and 27 sampans. Among notable strikes, two Air Force B57 Canberra bombers were credited with setting off 50 secondary explosions in an attack on a Viet Cong ammunition dump 35 miles north-northeast of Saigon. South Vietnamese pilots flew 143 strike sorties.

Conference, on Consolidated Edison's plans for expanding its generating capacity over the next decade.

Seanie Hudson is among the organizations opposing the Cornwall project on conservation grounds.

Warning said nuclear installations, in addition to the Cornwall plant, would be needed to meet sharply rising demand for electricity in the Consolidated Edison service area — New York City and Southern Westchester County.

He mentioned the Beacon, N.Y., area as a possible site for a nuclear installation.

Another possibility under consideration, he testified, was building a nuclear plant in the territory of another utility and transferring the power over transmission lines into the Consolidated Edison area.

List Other Sites
Warning listed Long Island, Orange-Rockland Counties, Central Hudson and the Pennsylvania pool area as possible sites.

Consolidated Edison sought to install a nuclear unit at its Ravenswood plant in Queens but opposition from area residents and others blocked the move.

Warning said today, however, that the utility eventually would

City Court Cases

Three traffic cases were heard today before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. Edward M. Sangaline, 60, RD 2, Kingston, cited by Officer Thomas Coffey on a charge of failure to signal, paid a $10 fine. Howard A. Bodie, 47, of 61 Prince Street, charged with driving a car with inadequate brakes by Officer Curtis Vandemark, was fined $5 and payment was suspended. Bodie's car was involved in a mishap at Foxhall Avenue and Prince Street, according to police. Ahmed Abbas, 25, Wingdale, pleaded guilty to driving an unregistered motor vehicle. A $3 fine was suspended. Summons was issued by Officer Joseph Feraca.

GOP Governors

The unprecedented political thumping the Democrats were giving their President found a dissenter in Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey.

Hughes said his fellow party members were criticizing Johnson for doing too well in putting into effect the anti-poverty and other programs on which all of them had campaigned.

"If there was an anti-Johnson vote in the November elections, it was an anti-justice vote," Hughes said.

Democratic Gov. John B. Connally of Texas, a close personal and political friend of the President, said he doesn't think anything much can be done to change the report of Iowa's "Wags."

"We agreed that Gov. Hughes should be our spokesman and that's that," he said.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri said that unless Johnson re-evaluates the political situation and changes course, the Democrats might start over with a new candidate for president in 1968.

In the flurry of political developments at what was to be a "nonpolitical" interim winter conference, the governor found time to approve a resolution produced by a special committee headed by Romney calling upon the federal government to "share some of its income with the states on a bloc basis, without strings."

Hospital Gets . . .

necessary for the establishment of an Intensive Care Unit for Cardiac Cases — a unit which is aimed at eliminating many of the obsolescent practices which plague the vast majority of America's hospitals.

Today, this pioneering effort at Benedictine will be named the Jacqueline Santosky Cardiac Intensive Care Unit.

This unit will provide constant supervision for critically ill cardiac patients, with all emergency equipment immediately at hand. This initial unit, consisting of three beds, is expected to reduce coronary fatalities as much as 50 per cent. Though mainly concerned with cardiac patients, the unit will be utilized by other critically ill patients when there are vacancies. This three-bed unit is Phase One of the projected 16 bed Intensive Care Unit.

At the Jacqueline Santosky Cardiac Intensive Care Unit, oxygen will be piped right to the bed, always available. Cardiacoscopes will automatically record the heart rhythm. Should a change occur, an alarm will sound alerting a nurse just a few feet away.

The Medical Director of the Benedictine Hospital, Dr. John A. Olivet, initiated a training program for Benedictine's nurses on Nov. 23. The cardiac intensive care unit is expected to go into operation Feb. 1, 1967.

The Santosky Fund Board of Trustees consists of Richard Santosky, chairman; Harry Rigby, assistant vice-president of State of New York National Bank; Dr. Lewis Neporent; Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk; Mrs. Charlotte Peck, director of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic; Richard Kalish, president of Thomsons Laundry Service Corporation, of Kingston; Alfred D. Roder, well known certified public accountant; and Edwin A. Bernstein, of WKNY.

Weighted Several Ideas
During the past few months, the board has weighed several possibilities of how best to aid those Hudson Valley residents who desperately need the best in medical care. Members constantly checked the progress of suffering individuals in serious need, whose cases had been called to their attention. In keeping with the concept of the initial plea made in Jackie's case, "To Save a Life," the objective of the Fund has been to do just that whenever and wherever possible. It is the unanimous opinion of the board that Benedictine's forward-looking intensive care program enables the fund to save not one, but many lives through the utilization of this new concept in patient care.

Kingston Hospital, too, has a similar plan under consideration. The Fund's trustees have stated that they will follow the progress of such a project there with interest and stand willing to aid the Kingston Hospital financially in any such endeavor, when and if a concentrated care unit becomes a reality there.

Last DCB Retired

BOSTON (AP) — Northeast Airlines retired its last DCB transport plane recently.

The plane was piloted by Capt. Richard Baines, 28, who was only 2 years old when the plane went into service. The stewardess for the flight was Joanne Zahradnik, who is 9 years younger than the plane.

Consolidated Edison sought to install a nuclear unit at its Ravenswood plant in Queens but opposition from area residents and others blocked the move.

Warning said today, however, that the utility eventually would provide all of its base load from nuclear plants and expressed the hope that New York City would be receptive to a nuclear plant by the middle of the 1970's.

of retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber, whose widow, Marjorie, 52, testified for the state. She told of being a "love slave" to Coppolino and said she watched as he held a pillow over her husband's face.

Coppolino and his first wife moved to Sarasota shortly after Farber's death. The causes of death for both Farber and Carmela Coppolino were listed as heart attacks.

The doctor and his current wife were married about a month after his first wife's death. The state says it has found lethal traces of anesthesia in the exhumed body of Carmela.

tive pay system for 2,000 of its 11,500 members. In 1964, an agreement was signed to phase out incentive pay. The union, however, later voiced dissatisfaction and GE agreed to modify the contract to allow incentive pay.

But union officials charged that GE did not make satisfactory modifications in the contract. After several bargaining sessions last fall, about 12,000 workers, including members of Local 301 and several smaller unions, walked out on Oct. 17.

Bargaining talks between the union and GE have been held sporadically since the walkout.

Chairman of the dance is Joanne Schupp. Assisting her are John and Jimmy Matague, Melissa Mayone, Joanne Themestocles, Mary Dwyer, Karen Quigley, decorations; Jacqueline Harder, Susan Gallagher, Mary Ann O'Neil, refreshments; Debbie Koskie, John Lynch, publicity. All teenagers are invited to attend.

Traditional Yule Program Is Given By Musical Society

For the past 30 years it has been a tradition for children of members in the Musical Society of Kingston to give a program in keeping with the Christmas season. On Wednesday night, Dec. 14, a Yule program was given at the residence of Mrs. Herman Knaust, Stroomzeit, Saugerties. Mrs. Herman K. Knaust Jr., and Mrs. Henry Million directed the children in the presentation "My Christmas Gift."

The children sang two choral selections, "The Friendly Beasts," an English carol, and "The Kinderlein Kommet," by Schulz. The latter was sung in German with flute accompaniment by Barbara Knaust. In the chorus were Drew Erickson, Susan Erickson, Geoffrey Keene, Alexandra Knaust, Herman Knaust, Mark Knaust, Jeffrey Sweet, Laurie Wood and Pamela Wood. Mrs. John Erickson was piano accompanist.

Laurie Wood, pianist, played Schumann's "Melody," and pianist Rebecca Wood played Bach's "Prelude." Edward Flick accompanied himself on the guitar while he sang "What Child Is This," and "A Time to Be Jolly." McKay's "Mountain Serenade," was played as a French horn solo by Carl Erickson.

Other performers included: Stuart Erickson, trumpet, "Ah, So Pure," by Von Flotow; Susan Erickson, violin, "We Three Kings"; Barbara and Karlyn Knaust, piano and flute duet, "Gavotte," by Goddard; Lydia Newcombe, French horn, accompanied by Deborah Sanford, pianist, "Reverie," by Glazounov; Karlyn Knaust, piano solo, "Prelude," Bach, and Deborah Sanford, guest pianist, "Impromptu in F Sharp Major," Chopin.

Mrs. Roland Tonneson, vice president, conducted a brief business meeting in the absence of Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg, president.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. LeRoy Vogt, Mrs. William Wood, Miss Mildred Brady and Miss Constance G. Flood.

Recent Graduate

Seaman Recruit Charles D. DeWitt, 21, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. DeWitt of Tillsen, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station. In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Widow Grandmother Teaching 60 Years; No Retirement Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — One winter day 60 years ago, a young schoolteacher began her first regular assignment in a New York City elementary school. She was 20 years old and unmarried.

Today, Elizabeth Kearns, a widowed grandmother who celebrated her 81st birthday 10 days ago, is still teaching. She has no immediate plans to retire.

"Age," she said in an interview today, "is not a matter of years. It's a matter of spirit. I don't feel old. I think one has to keep busy in order to be healthy. I think anybody who is busy and accomplishes something benefits by what they're doing."

Mrs. Kearns is one of the oldest active teachers in New York state.

She stays young by teaching first-graders at St. Joseph's School in suburban Garden City on Long Island. In 13 years at St. Joseph's, she hasn't missed a day because of illness.

To illustrate her point about staying healthy, Mrs. Kearns recalled that she retired in September 1952 for one year. "I stayed home," she said, "I had all kinds of aches and pains. The doctors couldn't find anything. Tension pains was what they put it. I joined St. Joseph's in September 1953. I never had any pains after I was back to work and I've never had any since."

Mrs. Kearns was born in Calais, Maine, on Dec. 6, 1885, but her family moved to New York when she was three years old. She married Thomas Kearns in 1916 and took five years off from teaching to raise a family. She has five children, including twins, all of whom are married. She has 20 grandchildren.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Gals:

Here's one for the boudoir.

How about that fancy name?

You know those luscious, adorable, quilted, shortie nylon housecoats we all buy? Well, when they get to where we can't call them raggedy-andy...

Usually, the bottom shows the most wear.

Why don't you all try cutting them off just a little bit below the waist, and use them as bed jackets?

Because they have been washed so many times, and have that beautiful padding in them, I find mine absolutely fabulous for that purpose.

Besides, on cool mornings, I can wear one as a cleaning jacket with my slacks or pedal pushers.

Quite comfy, I say.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I live alone, I work, and I smoke...

To eliminate danger of fire, I take the ashtray combining the stubs of all the cigarettes I smoke each morning, and put it in the kitchen sink before leaving for work.

Mrs. Betty Baker

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I wrote to a large manufacturing firm asking how to remove plaster which accidentally fell on the floor and hardened before we noticed it.

They wrote me a very nice letter, telling me how to remove it... using their product.

But the punch line is they they said if their product didn't work, to use a 50-50 solution of vinegar and water! So—LONG LIVE OUR HELOISE!

Mr. L. C. B.

Dear Heloise:

I save all advertisements that come in our mail.

When one of my children is sick and confined to bed, I give him the box containing all the ads, and he has a grand time opening each letter.

No more calling mother every two minutes for something to amuse himself with.

Mrs. R. T.

Dear Folks:

When you cook fresh lima beans—go ahead and shell and cook them like they say, but—

Save about 8 or 10 unshelled pods with the beans still in them.

Cook these pods with the SHELLED beans. You've never tasted anything in your life that adds such zest, and puts them way out on cloud nine.

The shells add the flavor of the true bean itself! Naturally, discard the shells before serving.

I always add one tablespoon of oleo, and some fresh-ground pepper when cooking fresh beans.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We have a philodendron plant growing on a tall, bark-covered pole in a planter in our living room.

Last year during the holidays, we decided to buy two strings of tiny, tiny lights to decorate the plant.

The effect was so beautiful that we didn't want to take the lights off after Christmas!

We left them on, and within a few weeks realized how fast the philodendron was growing! There was just enough heat from the lights to make the plant shoot up (and out) like Jack's beanstalk!

People who drive by and see Christmas lights in our window all year long may think we're a bit odd—but what care we???

Mrs. W. L. D.

Dear Heloise:

I have always been annoyed by paper measuring tapes breaking, and the cloth ones stretching.

For some time I've been using a carpenter's folding rule for everything except around-the-body measuring.

I find a folding wooden rule much more satisfactory than a cloth or paper one.

Doing The Right Thing

HARVARD'S APOLOGY

Last week my column was devoted to undergraduates who demonstrated atrocious manners by their insults and refusal to listen to speakers. The particular case was that of Secretary of Defense McNamara who could not conclude his speech at Harvard. Today I would like to add to that a sincere congratulatory note to the 2700 Harvard students who signed and sent an apology the following week. This helps to prove my contention that the "goods" far outnumber the "bads" among our young people — it's just that we hear about the "bads" first and most.

Party to Introduce Prospective In-Laws

Dear Mrs. Post: my son has just presented a diamond ring to a girl and I would like to introduce her parents to my friends at a cocktail party. Would December be too soon to have such a party? The wedding will be in May. June Hays

Dear Mrs. Hays: December would not be too soon at all as this party would be considered part of the celebration of the engagement.

Guest Leaves Room Presentable

Dear Mrs. Post: I beg to differ with your answer about stripping guest room beds. From years of experience I know that the kindest thing a guest can do is to make up the bed (soiled sheets and all) and leave the room presentable so that I can take my time in getting around to changing it. I mean this helpfully. Mrs. H.L.R.

Dear Mrs. R.: Thanks for your help, but I can't agree. From my own years of experience, I find that if the beds are not stripped at once, I usually forget all about it and am caught flat-footed with the dirty sheets still on when the next guest arrives! If the guest removes the sheet and pulls the spread over the bed, the room is just as presentable as if the soiled sheets were still there.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been engaged for one year to a young man who was in the service when we met. During a recent visit, my future mother-in-law invited my mother and me to spend a couple of days at Christmas in their home. I accepted this invitation although my mother knew nothing of it at the time. Was it wrong for me to accept that invitation for both of us? Should we disregard my personal acceptance and either should confirm it by note or wait and see if they will call and speak to my mother personally? Also, since my visit about three weeks ago, I have been receiving only one letter a week instead of the usual two from my fiancé and his father mentioned to me that my fiancé goes out, but not stating where, just about every evening. My fiancé said nothing. Please advise me on both matters. Joy

Dear Joy: More important than your visit to your fiancé's family is your relationship with him. Before you make more definite plans, ask him why he no longer writes you so often and if he has had a change of heart. If not, go ahead and pay the visit with your mother and enjoy it. Although you should have consulted her, you cannot withdraw your acceptance now, and I'm sure she'll be glad you made the plans.

10 Commandments for Today's Wives

Abigail Van Buren

In response to the overwhelming number of requests to reprint my TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR 20TH-CENTURY WIVES, which was the forerunner of my recently published TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR 20TH-CENTURY HUSBANDS, I hereby comply:

1. Defile not thy body with excessive foods, tobacco nor alcohol, that thy days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.

2. Purge thy husband before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter, and thy son, for he is thy lifelong companion.

3. Thou shalt not nag.

4. Permit no one to tell thee that thou art thy sister, nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will have a hard time of it; neither thy mother, nor hold her guiltless who letteth another disparage her husband.

5. Thou shalt not withhold affection from thy husband, for every man loveth to be loved.

6. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.

7. Forgive with grace, for who among us does not need forgiveness?

8. Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.

9. Keep thy home in good order, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.

10. Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

TRULY YOURS, ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear ABBY: You probably answered "NO SNOB" as subtly as you could have, since religion is a good subject to steer clear of.

However, I hope you will add this for "NO SNOB" who complained because a family with nine children came to church in a dump truck, and weren't dressed fancy enough for church, according to her standards.

And to think this person was judging in the home of the Only Judge.

Poor Jesus Christ! If He were to return to earth today, He would probably be crucified all over again because of his long hair, beard, and thong sandals. Sign me NO SNOB

Dear ABBY: A few months ago you printed a letter from a woman whose husband had a chance for a better job but it meant moving to another city, which frightened her. You advised her to be a good kid, smile, and go with him.

Cupcake Papers

Dear Mrs. Post: When serving cupcakes at a reception, should the papers be left on? Diane

Dear Diane: I assume you mean the little fluted papers the cakes are baked in, and if so, yes, they should be left on. Besides being difficult to remove

I felt so smug at the time because I was waiting to be moved to our new home.

Now that we are moved I am miserable. My children have regressed to bed-wetting and thumb-sucking, and their school work has slipped from excellent to poor. The sale of our home turned out to be a financial loss, and to complete the picture my husband is very unhappy in his new position. We can't go back.

Abby, some families are just not meant for relocating. Now that I am a bitter, frustrated transplant I have met coddles of women in the same boat. Why didn't I hear their stories before? I think your optimism was misleading.

DEAR WILTED: When a man is asked to move his family in order to "grow" with his company, it usually proves to be beneficial for all concerned. Since no one has a crystal ball, some moves are bound to be disappointing. But ours would be a sad society if everyone stayed rooted in one place for fear of making a mistake.

I agree, you have had an unfortunate start, but between you and me, "a few months" is hardly a fair period for adjustment. (P. S. Perhaps your husband is "unhappy" in his new job because you are miserable at home.)

DEAR ABBY: Because of you, my Christmas is a lot merrier this year. Last year my husband was driving me crazy sitting around the house doing nothing. He had just retired at age 65, was in good health, and didn't know what to do with himself. He'd worked hard all his life and never had time to cultivate any hobbies.

I kiddingly suggested he write to you. And he did. You told him to offer his services to some volunteer group, and you named a few. He called the Crippled Children's Society, and they gave him the names of some handicapped children who needed transportation to and from the therapy clinic. He's never been happier.

Aren't men peculiar? They'll listen to advice from a stranger, but just let their wives tell them the same thing and they'll say she's off her rocker. Merry Christmas, Abby! DORIS

Diners Rushed in Restaurant

Dear Mrs. Post: Last evening my wife and I had our dinner at a restaurant. The question I am writing about is this: When my wife finished eating her food and I was still eating, was it proper for the waiter to remove her plate? We eat out often and I don't recall it happening before.

Sherburne Smith

Dear Mr. Smith: I'm glad you brought this up. I've seen it happen and I think it's inexcusable. The waiter may have been instructed to snatch the empty plates away to speed up service, but it certainly makes it uncomfortable for the one who is still eating. The implication is clearly, "Hurry up, slow-poke, we can fill this table again if it doesn't get too late."

A Time for Tact

Dear Mrs. Post: What do you think of a man (your date) who tells you that you have a run in your stocking, or that your slip is showing? Is he doing the right thing, or should he ignore it and save your feelings?

Embarrassed

Dear Embarrassed: If there's a place where you can go to hike up your slip or a means of changing your stockings, he's right to tell you. But out in the middle of nowhere with no dressing rooms, or shops to buy a new pair of stockings, it would be far more practical for him to pretend he never noticed.

Holiday Table Settings

The very word hospitality has an easy charm. It implies a spontaneous welcome which is in no way dependent upon elaborate fixings or lengthy preparation.

This is the sort of gracious atmosphere every homemaker wants to create during the holidays when friends drop in. And it is simple enough, from the standpoint of both time and money.

For your "hospitality center," Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist, suggests that you use the dining table or a large table in the living room. Start early in the day to set it with holiday linens, cake plates, egg nog bowl and cups, and your prettiest silver. Bring out the fruit cake. Everything is ready, and all that remains to do later is serve the egg nog at a moment's notice. Even this can be prepared well ahead and brought to the table as needed. Everyone will enjoy this casual but warm welcome, ready and waiting.

Christmas tablecloths are so dramatic these days that little decorative assistance is needed from other props. Even the most elaborate designs are intended for the washing machine, so use them often with an easy conscience.

Holiday-design china—it may be plastic, of course, is inexpensive and serves a decorative as well as utilitarian purpose. Be sure to choose tablecloth and plates or punch bowl set with regard to their motifs and colors, in order to make the table appear as one harmonious picture.

You will naturally expect to use your holiday table settings and appointments for many years to come, so treat them with due care. Examine cloth and napkins for stains immediately after the last guest has gone, and treat them right away. Then general laundering in warm soap or detergent suds can wait for tomorrow.

LBJ Back in Texas For Yule Holidays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has returned to his Texas ranch for the Christmas holidays.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Johnson, flew here Friday night. Mrs. Johnson is scheduled to appear at a Christmas bazaar at Johnson City today. She planned to contribute bread and preserves made at the LBJ ranch.

Earlier Friday, Johnson visited former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, recuperating from a gallbladder operation at Walter Reed Army Hospital. Johnson said he and Eisenhower conferred about "one or two things I didn't know what I was going to do about . . . I discussed them with him and now I know what I'm going to do." He did not elaborate.

"I think he's on the rapid road to recovery," Johnson said of Eisenhower, adding that the five-star general was in good spirits, alert and very interested in "what is happening in the affairs I deal with."

9-Year-Old Injured

Boice's Lane, Town of Ulster, was the scene of a one-car accident Friday at 4:30 p. m. in which a nine-year-old boy was injured. The youngster, Philip Staccio, of RD 1, Kingston, reportedly ran into the road from between two parked cars. He was hit by an automobile operated by George Devine, 24, of 306 Albany Avenue, Kingston. Taken to Benedictine Hospital, the boy was treated for a fractured right leg and head abrasions. No charges were made in the mishap, according to Trooper A. W. Spencer, of Lake Katrine substation, who investigated.

Hobbies of Local Man Tells Story of Merry Christmas

BY R. DEAN WILSON
Freeman Staff Writer

In a world filled with many sheep and few shepherds; where the masses slake their lust for the adventures life via the TV tube, a man like Joseph Bibeau is rare indeed.

Male nurse on the World War I battlefields of Europe; high diver at the (1939-40) New York World's Fair; expert steeplejack; collector of miscellany; and embroiderer extraordinaire—the life of "Frenchie" Bibeau has been one in a million, not that of a minion.

A Christmas Story

And in a way Bibeau's story is one for Christmas, for instead of a worldly cynic the years of individualism and excitement have fomented him into a man of involvement; into the kind of guy that paints churches for free and decorates his home with—and not just in—the Spirit of Christmas.

We started out to tell the story of Bibeau's Christmas decorations. Of the 100-odd-year-old St. Nicholas doll; the hand-strung, no-longer-available bead chains he has strung like cobwebs across the ceiling; the embroidered American flag for which he was once offered $500. But somewhere in his Downs Street home that story faded behind the man himself.

"You just can't keep him down," was how his wife described him. She looked sternly at her husband across the room. "If he's able to get up at all he's off working someplace—I just can't get him to stay around the house. He's usually off painting something."

With greying hair, lengthening forehead and the echo of steel in his eyes, Bibeau half-grinned at his wife and nodded at the word "painting."

Happiest When Working

"Sure, I still work. I'm happier when I'm working. 'Look at the way these hands tremble . . . why I can't even sweeten my coffee right, they shake so much. But you put a paint brush in my hand and I'll paint you a line straighter than you could with a yardstick.'"

The story of the churches is a part of that ability with a brush. "We were married up in Tannersville . . . that's my hometown. That was about 27 years ago, and we lived behind this Protestant church."

"Well, come winter and my house painting started to slack off. I don't like having nothing to do, and I kept looking at this church—it really looked pretty bad—until finally my wife said to go see the minister, so I did. Unexpected Offer

"I introduced myself and I guess he was pretty surprised— you see I'm Catholic and my wife's Protestant— especially when I offered to paint his church if he'd buy me the paint. Like I told him, the church was in a resort town and it'd look lots nicer if it was painted."

"So anyway, he jumped at the chance. But after I was all finished it looked so nice the people at my church started letting on as to how they'd like our church painted. So I did that too."

"Well, wouldn't you know it, I started feeling real guilty after I got done, so I went over and talked to the Rabbi at the Synagogue and ended up doing their place too."

His wife interrupted. "That's not all. About a year ago, after we moved to Kingston (we lived down on O'Neil Street then) when he goes out for a walk, sees Bethlehem Temple over here on Tremper Avenue, and before you know it he's painting that too." She looked at her husband and laughed, shaking her head. "You just can't keep him down."

As he talked Bibeau gestured with one hand, missing one finger and half another. That, he said, was a souvenir from World War I.

"I was a male nurse with the 26th New England Division . . ."

That was one of the best, my boy. We served all over Europe. "Anyway it just happened that I was trying to feed one of our boys in a battlefield hospital. Only way we could do it was through nose tubes and he was fighting it. We had to do it. We had to. So I was holding his head and somehow he bit off this finger and part of this one."

How did a male nurse become a house painter? Bibeau never did say, but he did speak of other jobs he's had.

Dove Four Stories—Headfirst

"I even was a high diver for a while. Back in the world's fair down in New York—I mean the real one, back in the '30s. They had firemen there that would set fire to this four-story hotel and then a bunch of us would jump out the windows and off the room—right into the fire nets. Men and women. I used to dive off the room myself. No, I don't mean jump, I mean dive . . . headfirst."

Working as a steeplejack? He still does it.

"Oh the doctors tell him not to," his wife clenched her lips. They tell him he must not climb or anything, but you just can't keep him down."

It seemed unusual, at the least, that a man used to jobs such as these could settle himself to a hobby such as embroidery— although it's not his only love. He also has a collection of well over 500 nie-naes overflowing from a six-shelf high bookcase, plus a distinctive, unusual and highly attractive trove of Christmas decorations.

But embroidery?

Proves Male Superior

"Oh he just wanted to show me up," Mrs. Bibeau said with a laugh. "He used to sit and watch me embroider right after we were married and figured if I could do it, well, so could he."

"He finally got so good I just gave up and took up crocheting."

The flag came as part of the hobby. Done entirely from silk threads and in the works for 17 months, it is roughly the size of a small handkerchief and rests inside the frame of a picture of a son, recently retired after 20 years active duty with the U. S. Navy.

"I did that back in the late '30s . . . Guess it was just before World War II. I'd never sold it, but a lot of people have offered me money for it. One man, he's dead now, his name was Abraham Schwartz—he was a politician down in New York City—offered me $500 for it right after the war broke out."

Full Winter's Work

After that Mrs. Bibeau trotted out sheets and pillow cases and table cloths, all done by her husband—he embroidered 22 sets of pillow cases and 14 table cloths last winter alone—each carrying a woodland or seasonal tableau.

"Besides, with 15 children and 24 grandchildren, you can pretty well imagine he's done a lot of other embroidery too." She added, "You just can't keep him down."

There is one last thing to be said for Bibeau: Happy Birthday. He will be 78 on Tuesday.

Kingston School For Movers Is National First

Kingston recorded another first-of-its-kind Friday as the first "moving school" was formed up, with headquarters at the 149 Clinton Avenue home of Smith Avenue Storage-Warehouse moving company.

Purpose of the Faerber Institute of Moving is to meet " . . . the growing problem of acquiring skilled moving personnel to meet the demands of this rapidly expanding business."

Aimed at training movers in the proper techniques of moving, the institute is headed by Fred Faerber III, owner of the Smith Avenue firm and of Faerber Van Lines. Other officers are Vice President William Brown, Secretary Richard Brill and Treasurer Harry Blaber.

According to a statement issued with formation of the school, officials termed the moving industry "A prime example of rapidly expanding American business. Statistics show one of every four families will move once every year. Mobility is an ever increasing trend in our way of life."

"Now our industry is faced with a growing problem, that of acquiring skilled moving personnel to meet the demands. . . . An industry going through a period of growth, development and change offers qualified personnel the chance to move upward. The better trained and qualified the individual the faster should be his advancement rate."

Troopers Report Deer And Pony Hit by Cars

Two accidents, one involving a deer and the other a pony, were reported by State Police at Rhineback today. According to troopers there, the short open season on animals on the highways began at 4:55 p. m. Friday when a car driven by Willard Lennox, 45, of Staatsburg, hit a deer on Route 9, Town of Hyde Park. The vehicle was going going north on the highway when a deer ran in front of it; was struck and killed. No injuries resulted from the mishap; the car was slightly damaged; and Lennox did not claim the deer. The other accident, involving a child's pet pony, occurred at 2 o'clock this morning on Swamp Road, Town of Red Hook, when the animal ran in front of a car operated by Donal Seidel, 35, of Tivoli. Seidel was going east at the time the pony was struck. He was issued a summons for being an unlicensed operator.

Rondout Valley, Wallkill Clubs Also Earn Wins

BY ED PALLADINO

Freeman Sports Staff

Marlboro's basketball fortunes, guided so successfully for several years by John O'Donnell, appear to be as bright as ever.

Coach Ed Sarare's cagers rolled to their fourth straight triumph, including three in the UCAL, with an easy does it, 71-58, win last night over visiting Highland before an SRO crowd at the cramped Duke gym.

In other contests, Rondout Valley topped Pine Bush, 55-42, and Wallkill scored a 76-66 win over Onteora.

Standings:

Team	W	L
Marlboro	3	0
Rondout Valley	3	1
Wallkill	3	1
Onteora	1	2
Highland	1	2
Pine Bush	1	3
New Paltz	0	3

Grabs Early Lead

The Dukes, who almost never lose on their small home court, jumped to a 20-6 first period lead and just coasted the rest of the way against the willing but outclassed Highlanders.

This one was close only for a few short moments. Richie Faulk, who had 28 points in three quarters of play, put the Dukes ahead with a jump shot and Greg Cappillino, the football quarterback knotted the count with a deuce for the visitors.

The rest of the contest belonged to Marlboro. Faulk and Ray McAttee tallied from outside and Faulk came back with a steal and a driving layup before Lee Barrington hit for Highland. This made it an 8-4 game with almost half the first period gone.

Then, in rapid succession, Mike LaPolla scored from the side and from underneath before Cappillino hit on a follow-up shot for the visitors. Before the first quarter had come to a close, Mike Pagano and Faulk had divided eight points more between them. It was 20-6 game and the Highlanders were out of contention.

It was 40-20 at halftime and Sarare emptied the bench in the second half. Highland made the final count respectable with a 26 point surge in the final session.

Second Half Surge

Rondout remained tied for second with Wallkill with a good second half effort at Pine Bush. Coach Chick Meehan's Ganders were in a 27-27 embrace after two periods.

They started to hit the boards in the third and fourth quarters and Pete Kilduff found the range. It was all over after that.

Kilduff closed with 19 points, the only player from either team to score in double figures.

Wallkill cashed in on 32 of 39 foul shots at Onteora to pin a tough loss on the Indians. The Panthers had 31 points in the second period, including a nifty 17 for 19 from the charity stripe.

30 for Kelly

Brian Kelly, hitting from all sides, led both teams with 30 points. The Onteora ace fouled out with 15 seconds remaining.

Coach Wes Kissel's club outscored the visitors, 26-22, from the field but managed only 14 foul shots against those 32 for Wallkill. Onteora was tagged with 29 personal fouls.

In jayvee games, Marlboro beat Highland, 55-34; Rondout stopped Pine Bush, 39-24.

Red Hook Beats New Paltz, 67-53

Red Hook made its trip to New Paltz a worthwhile one last night as it toppled the Huguenots, 67-53, in a non-league game.

The winners led by slim margins at the first two quarter stops and then outscored the home side, 24-14, in the third session.

New Paltz won a 42-34 victory in the jayvee contest.

Pioneers Stop Falls, 68-62

Richie Lawrence scored 24 points and Poughkeepsie came from a 19-10 first period deficit to notch a 68-62 DCSL win over visiting Wappingers Falls last night.

Despite a box-in-one defense, aimed at putting the clamps on Lawrence, the PHS ace had 15 of his points in the second half. He finished with six baskets and added a dozen foul shots.

Poughkeepsie captured the Jayvee game, 60-34.

Schuyler Scores 3rd Straight Win

Unbeaten Philip Schuyler was forced into an overtime session before nipping Linton, 88-80, last night at the losers' court.

The Class A favorite, slated to play later this month in the Kingston Friday night tournament, led all the way but Linton scored seven points in the final seven seconds to send the contest into overtime.

Herb Bowen scored 34 points for the winners.

Baltimore Wins 3rd Straight Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Bullets, under Coach Gene Shue, have won as many games in the past 11 days as they did in the first 51 days of the season.

The Bullets triumphed 121-113 Friday night for their third straight National Basketball Association victory and fourth in six games since Shue was named coach Dec. 5.

In other games, Philadelphia won its 29th straight home game, tying a league record in beating St. Louis 124-113, and Chicago downed Cincinnati 128-120.

The Bullets didn't have very much success before Shue. While scraping together their first four victories, they lost 21 games. Now they're an almost respectable 4 1/2 games away from getting out of the Eastern Division cellar.

Detroit, playing without Player-Coach Dave DeBusschere who has an infected right foot, closed to within 93-92, but Baltimore's Don Olm whipped in five straight baskets, increasing the lead to 100-93. The Pistons never got closer than six points the rest of the way.

Philadelphia increased its record to an amazing 28-3 behind a well-balanced scoring attack. Wilt Chamberlain flipped in 22 points, Wally Jones 19, Lucius Jackson 18 and Chet Walker 17. Lou Hudson scored 27 for St. Louis.

Cowboys, Patriots Hopeful

The Dallas Cowboys, with everything to gain, and the Buffalo Bills, with everything to lose, kept a television death watch today while their future was decided at St. Louis and New York.

Dallas, gunning for its first National Football League division crown, was sitting pretty at kickoff time in St. Louis, where the Cardinals battled for survival against the Cleveland Browns.

The Bills, however, fidgeted in front of their home screens as the Boston Patriots sought to end their two-year American Football League reign by downing the Jets at New York.

Regardless of the Cardinals outcome, the Cowboys knew they still will be in the driver's seat Sunday, when they meet New York's defenseless Giants in their regular season windup.

The Bills had no such assurance. Anything short of a Jets victory would make Sunday's Denver-Buffalo contest a purely academic affair.

Boston went into today's game with an 8-2 record, having dropped only one of its last 11 starts. Either a victory or tie at New York was all the Patriots needed to eliminate Buffalo, 8-4-1, and clinch their first AFL Eastern Division title since 1963.

In the NFL's Eastern Conference stretch race, Dallas, 9-1-1, took a full game bulge over the Jets, 8-4-1, into the climactic weekend.

Waiting in the wings for the Jan. 1 NFL championship game with a visit to Los Angeles Sunday while Baltimore is at San Francisco, Philadelphia at Washington, Pittsburgh at Atlanta and Minnesota at Chicago.

Houston invades Miami and the Chiefs prep for their Jan. 1 title date by visiting San Diego in Sunday's other AFL season-enders.

Still at stake in the NFL are the second spots in each division and an additional payday in the league's Ruppert Bowl at Miami. Four Eastern clubs — Dallas, St. Louis, Cleveland and Philadelphia — still were possible runners-up before today's game and three more teams — Baltimore, Los Angeles and San Francisco — were in the running for second place in the West.

In addition, several individual titles were up for grabs in each league.

Atlanta's NFL expansion babies will be seeking their fourth victory of the season, having matched Minnesota's first-year record of three by upsetting St. Louis last Sunday. Miami, the AFL's expansion club, can escape the cellar by upending Houston for its third victory.

Undefeated Syracuse owes its fifth basketball victory this season to Rick Dean, who scored four points in the final two minutes and 25 over-all to lead the Orange past Penn State, 77-72, Friday night.

Dean scored on a lay up and made two free throws after the Lions had evened the score at 70-70.

Meanwhile, Cornell fell to Yale in an Ivy League game at New Haven, Conn., 78-67, as the Elis scored freely in the first half and coasted through the second.

In other games Friday involving Upstate New York colleges:

Buffalo State edged Oswego State, 50-48; Hamilton downed Harpur, 80-71; Genesee State toppled Cortland State, 75-68; Hiram of Ohio beat Fredonia State, 100-88; St. Lawrence defeated Rensselaer Polytechnic, 81-74, and Central Connecticut drubbed Plattsburgh State, 118-78.

Five Yale players scored in double figures. The Elis hit on 35 per cent of their shots Greg Morris, high scorer for Cornell, was held to 15 points.

Buffalo State won its game at the final buzzer as Al Kozen scored on a jump shot.

Hamilton preserved its unbeaten record on the strength of a 26-point performance by Bill Enstrom.

Genesee had to hold off a late rally by Cortland to notch its victory.

Hiram's freewheeling attack on Fredonia gave the Ohio team its first victory of the season.

Dick Balcerzak scored 24 points to carry St. Lawrence to victory after RPI had taken a brief lead early in the second half.

Central Connecticut was powered by Bob Plosky, with 32 points, in rolling up a heavy win over Plattsburgh.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Franklin C. (Pepper) Rodgers was named head football coach at the University of Kansas after coach at UCLA.

Chief Cites Men For Fire Work At Blue Mountain

"Quick and efficient operation" was cited by Centerville Fire Chief Granville Myer in the confining of a blaze in the Blue Mountain home of Frank Beiter, apparently started "in the vicinity of a ceiling light fixture in the kitchen."

According to the chief, heavy smoke resulted from the flames although firemen were protected through use of self-contained breathing units. He said the fire spread through the kitchen ceiling's joists and up the side of the two-story frame dwelling before finally breaking out in the attic.

The blaze was reported to firemen by a neighbor who first spotted the flames in the kitchen. Chief Myer said she ran to the home of a neighbor to make the report.

"It was a good save," the chief said, "with a minimum amount of damage." He said assistance was provided by Cedar Grove firemen with volunteers from the C. A. Lynch Fire Company called in for stand-by duty.

Preceding the meeting a roast beef dinner will be served in the dining room at 6:30 p. m. and all members of Rondout Lodge are invited to attend.

Bids $30 Million Over State's Price

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state has received low bids totaling $104.8 million for construction of a large section of the South Mall project here, more than $30 million above the state's estimates.

Officials of the State Public Works Department said they were shocked at the over-all total. One of them commented: "Obviously, we'll have to give serious consideration to what we do next."

Robert D. Stone, deputy of the Office of General Services, said state engineers originally had estimated the cost of the project at $70 million.

"That is right, our estimates totaled in the order of $70 million," Stone said.

The bids announced Friday were for six separate contracts for construction of a 1,200-foot-long, 700-foot-wide support deck for state office buildings.

The low bid on the main contract was filed by three firms as a joint enterprise. They are Foster Lipkins, Die Concrete and Cauldwell Wingate, all of Valley Stream, L.I. The bid was $77,489,000.

The others: H. Sand and Co. Inc., New York City, heating, $11,183,000. Novak and Co. Inc., Brooklyn, sanitary equipment, $2,926,147. Are Electric Construction Co. Inc., Brooklyn, electrical work, $11,400,000.

Otis Elevator Co., Albany, elevators, $921,245.

M. Kramer and Sons Inc., Albany, sprinkler systems, $956,712.

The entire project is expected to be completed in the 1970s.

GOP Governor's Club Revealed By Dem Senator

NEW YORK (AP) — State Sen. Manfred Ohrenstein, a Manhattan Democrat, says he has discovered the existence of what he terms a Republican fund-raising organization called the governor's Club with a top state officials.

Ohrenstein said Friday night the club contributed $180,000 of its total receipts of $191,000 to the New York Republican Finance Committee, an arm of the Republican State Committee.

$180,000 Missing
While the Governor's Club reported its contribution to the state secretary of state, Ohrenstein said that careful checking found no record of the $180,000 in records of Republican campaign expenses.

Both the Governor's Club and the finance committee reported offices at 120 E. 56th St., Ohrenstein said in a WCBS-TV interview.

The senator said he didn't know whether the Governor's Club was similar to the President's Club, commenting wryly that "at least the President's Club has been open."

"To my knowledge nobody knows about the Governor's Club," he said.

Asked what questions the existence of the club raised, Ohrenstein said: "If the Governor's Club was founded to funnel into it the contributions of state officials, there are grave moral questions involved."

"I want to know who solicited these contributions, under what circumstances were they solicited, whether these people did give freely or whether they were under some sort of lion," he said. "I do not know enough facts."

Conflict of Interest
"Above all," Ohrenstein said, "It raises the whole question of conflict of interest in terms of whether these people, who are appointees of the governor, in fact owe their jobs to him to such an extent that they felt forced to contribute."

A spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, reached in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where Rockefeller is attending the National Governors' Conference, declined comment.

It looked as if East might be short in clubs. Also it appeared likely that West would need the queen of clubs for his heart raise but South wanted a sure thing if possible.

He won the diamond in dummy, ruffed a diamond, entered dummy with a trump, ruffed the last low diamond and led a second trump to dummy. When West showed out on that second

Report Peking's Power Struggle Nearing Climax

TOKYO (AP) — The Mao-Lin faction ruling Communist China admitted today that its opponents still wield "relative superiority" in the cultural and ideological spheres and urged the masses to oust them by elections or popular recall.

The target of the attack appeared to be President Liu Shao-chi.

The appeal for direct action against Liu and his supporters appeared in Red Flag, the theoretical organ controlled by Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Defense Minister Lin Biao.

It made clear that though the struggle between the two power centers within the Chinese Communist party may be reaching a climax, it remains, in its own words, "extremely fierce, acute and profound."

Recent claims by Mao and Lin of total victory followed by more cautious evaluations indicate that the outcome still is in doubt. Reports this week from Peking tell of mounting confusion and violence, with workers pitted against the Mao-Lin Red Guards in apparent support of Liu's position.

Red Flag as usual did not identify the opposition to Mao and Lin. But Japanese correspondents in Peking reported today that party propaganda chief Tao Chu singled out Liu and party General Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping for attack at a rally Dec. 13. Tao accused them of carrying out a "bourgeois reaction line" and said they would have to take the consequences.

The overthrow exploiting classes," said Red Flag, "have been using the relative superiority they still possess in the ideological and cultural spheres, using the old ideology and the old force of habit to corrupt and deceive the masses and confuse and poison people's minds in order to extend their own positions and mold public opinion for staging a restoration."

This means that Liu and Teng Hsiao-ping have the backing of many students and professors in their fight against the rigid doctrines of Mao and Lin. It could also mean that many Chinese want an end to the Maoist type of communism.

Big Traffic Ticket

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (AP) — "This is the biggest traffic ticket I've ever seen," quipped comedian Bob Hope as he gave Jerry Colonna a resolution thanking him for his work entertaining U.S. troops.

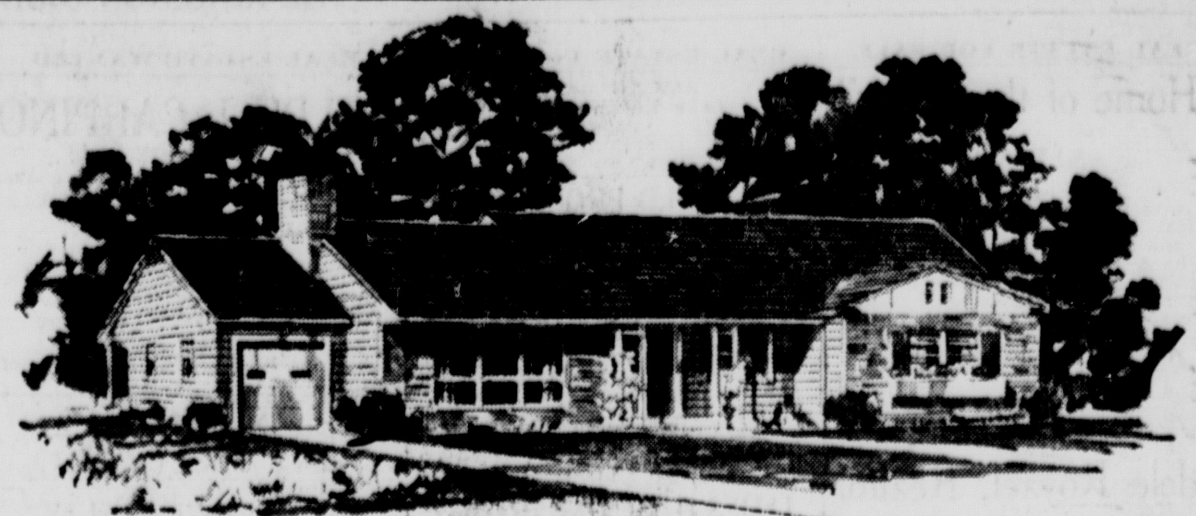

Hope presented the resolution to the mustachioed comedian Thursday on behalf of the Los Angeles City Council, Colonna — who has traveled more than four million miles and performed in more than 1,500 shows around the world for servicemen — will be unable to travel to Vietnam with Hope's troupe this year.

Colonna suffered a stroke in August and is recovering at the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital in Woodland Hills, Calif.

None for Road

DETROIT (AP) — The Automobile Club of Michigan has abandoned its "If you drive, don't drink" admonition in favor of "None for the road."

Noting that motorists do have an occasional drink during the holiday season, the club manager, Fred N. Rehm, said the safe-driving campaign was being aimed at party hosts, asking them not to kill their guests with hospitality, by encouraging them not to overindulge.

New House Plan That Has Three Large Bedrooms

By JACK McELENNEY

If you are looking for a house that is frankly big, and has full convenience for modern living, you'll probably recognize it in the new Associated Architects' house plan, "The Ballard."

If such a house seems a bit too large for you, I think there's much to be gained by owning and studying the plan. There are features here that add considerably to the usefulness of a home. Features that you'd want in whatever house you build.

Let me describe the house with the aid of the accompanying floor plan. There are three bedrooms, 13 by 16 feet to 10 by 12 feet in size. The latter is readily converted into a study or recreation room, with perhaps double-duty furniture making it an emergency guest room. Wardrobes equipped with modern, space-saving sliding doors are part of each bedroom. Windows are well placed for fine natural lighting and ventilation.

You'd expect a home like "The Ballard" to have a spacious entrance foyer, in the tradition of the desirable home of prewar construction. This is the "central hall," of which we hear so much, and is so prized today. Like spokes from a wheel, all rooms can be reached from a sort of hub, channeling foot traffic through corridors.

The closet story of "The Ballard" begins right in the foyer, where there is an ample coat closet for your own and guests' outerwear. Beyond this point, a 14½ by 20 foot living room may be reached as well as the dining room, kitchen and bedrooms. There are closets and storage space everywhere—like the built-in china cabinet in the dining room, a kitchen closet that may be used as a "catch all," linen closet and so forth. There is a freezer room next to the garage that is an invitation for you to live even more luxuriously than the kings of old.

"The Ballard" may be built with or without a basement. The "L" shape of the kitchen is one of the most efficient known. In terms of homemaking, this means fewer steps, smoother tempos and — who knows? — pleasanter meals and mealtimes. Note the additional convenience of a lavatory off this room.

You don't have to use the dining room for occasional snacks, or even breakfast, thanks to the dining nook in the kitchen. It is another built-in and saves the cost of expensive dinette furniture.

To obtain the moderately priced plans of "The Ballard," use the accompanying coupon, and be sure to note if you want drawings with basement or without basement. This house has 1,580 square feet of living space; garage and covered porches add another 550 square feet for a total of 2,130 square feet.

With your plans you receive a set of specifications to help protect your investment while building. However, good construction is inherent in the plans, since they conform with Federal Housing Administration (FHA) property and other requirements. Fire safety is also built in through having all electrical wiring follow the National Electrical Code.

FULL WEEK'S LISTINGS OF TV PROGRAMS — DEC. 18th THRU DEC. 24th

Dr. Seuss' 'Grinch' Scampers Into Living Rooms in Yule Special

By ISOBEL ASHE

What's a Grinch? A Bingle Ball? A Pan Tooka? A snaffer Snoof? A Floober, a Tram Tooker, or even a Sloo Slonker?

It is not a foreign language. It only reads that way. The words make total and complete sense to the youngest generation, and to parents who have helped their youngest generations learn to read.

The words, all of them were coined by Dr. Seuss. The children know HE is real, and that's sufficient reason to believe in such delightfully squiggly creatures of his creation as a "Grinch."

A really special, special occasion is in store for this youngest generation, the older set age 10 or 12 who feel like recapturing their youth, and parents of the whole bunch on Sunday night, December 18. From 7-7:30 Eastern time on CBS, a "first" will come to television: the first Dr. Seuss story ever adapted for TV.

It is called "Dr. Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas," and it is a half-hour filled with the key characters only Dr. Seuss can create and name.

For instance, just what IS a Grinch? Well, he's green, for one thing. And he's rather evil-looking, with beady red eyes. He didn't start out in life intending to be mean—after all, who does?—but he DID start out with a large handicap. His heart is two sizes too small for the rest of him. And at Christmastime this is a large problem.

Well, this evil Grinch decided to steal Christmas. He did so because he didn't like all the noise that comes every year on Christmas morn. The Grinch lives just north of Whoville on top of Mt. Crumpet, and he just wanted to stop Christmas from causing the noise.

Now the Grinch isn't all bad. He has a dog. Named Max. Like all faithful dogs, Max will do just about anything his master decides—even to being dressed like a reindeer in the effort to steal Christmas from the Whos.

The Grinch dresses up like Santa Claus and, well — we're not going to tell you whether Christmas gets stolen or if Max is a convincing reindeer, or if the Whos rise above this terrible happening. We're just not, that's all.

But what sort of fanciful gentleman can create Grinches and Turtles called Yertle, or Hortons who live in trees? A fanciful gentleman—whose real name is Theodor Seuss Geisel, a native of Springfield, Mass. He is a graduate of Dartmouth College, and of Lincoln College in Oxford, England.

He did magazine illustrations and wrote stories for national magazines, and had a highly successful career as an advertising genius.

If you recall a campaign whose catchline was "Quick Henry, the Flit," that was dreamed up by Ted Geisel. And then came World War II, which proved to be a turning point in the life of Ted Geisel.

Geisel's war experiences encompassed writing and producing motion pictures for the Army. Two of them won Academy Awards.

A fringe benefit of this assignment was the fact that Ted Geisel worked with a gentleman named Chuck Jones.

And it is primarily due to Jones that "Dr. Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas" is coming to television.

Recalls Jones: "I was with Warner Brothers, producing films for the Army, too. Ted was a Captain at the time, making these training films. We developed the little 'Snafu' character and made about 20 of those training films. Ted became a major, went overseas, was in the Battle of the Bulge and then at Hiroshima. His story, 'Horton Hears a Who,' was inspired by what he saw at Hiroshima.

"I directed the 'Snafu' films and we saw each other socially now and then."

Says Jones, "I knew Ted was writing children's books and he wasn't making much money from them. He told me one evening that if he could only earn $5,000 or $6,000 a year from his books' royalties then he'd never have to worry about finances." Jones laughs a lot in retrospect when he recalls that quote. So does Geisel, all the way to his banks. But Jones didn't know that earlier this year.

Jones continued in the movie business and, despite the fact that his old buddy was living only 100 miles south of Hollywood, in La Jolla, he wasn't aware that old buddy was a multimillionaire many times over from these children's books.

"I wanted the luxury of doing a show that I WANTED to do," Jones went on, "and I thought of Ted. I figured maybe he could use some extra money, by letting me produce one of his children's books for television."

After the phone call during which Jones learned that his pal didn't exactly need extra loot, negotiations still continued. It seems Geisel had been offered countless deals to let his characters move into television, and had turned them down regularly.

"I wanted creative control over what happened to my characters," says Geisel. "And most of the offers just were that: offers of a lot of money and kindly stay home and let US tend to the TV business. With Chuck, I knew I could work actively with him on the Grinch," says Geisel.

He could, he did, and he has. Since last spring when work commenced on the special, Geisel has commuted regularly from his mountaintop home in La Jolla, supervising production, the MGM record album of three original tunes from the show, and generally making sure the Grinch will come to television as his own, Grinchy self.

Done in full-color animation, the half-hour show is certain to be a Christmas classic, with Boris Karloff narrating it. It is entirely possible that there'll be other of the Dr. Seuss books for MGM animation.

So if you hear the youngsters walking around the house talking about a deegal trout, or a fish made of strawberry jelly, how many tall feathers a girl bird named Gertude McFuzz has, or if you will buy them a sheegle-mobile (which is an animal-finding machine), you'll know they've been re-reading Dr. Seuss with regularity.

From whence come these fanciful names that only Dr. Seuss characters possess?

If Dr. Seuss knows, he isn't telling. He merely smiles in the fey way of some of his characters. He does say about the original Grinch book, that he wrote it due to an "economic and publishing necessity."

"I had three months to do a Christmas book. Generally, I worry my way for months through a book, making sure the people look as I want them too, and say the proper things that Seuss characters do.

"This I wrote in one month, and illustrated in two months, which was almost a record for me. In spite of the rush and pressure, this turned out to be one of my best books."

And there you have some of the reasons why "Dr. Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas" is a very special special television special. True, the Grinch doesn't look like "a thwerll whose legs are snarled up in a terrible snarl," which describes a bug from another Dr. Seuss book, but he, too, may be coming to television one of these days.

And truly—a world without a thwerll doesn't seem quite complete. Does it?

Always a First

Cliff Norton has been eliminated from the regular cast of It's About Time by the format change which is bringing the Stone Age family to the 20th Century, but leaving him behind.

Now that he is off the show in mid-season, he is telling friends, "This is the first time I have ever been in a seri."

Really Small

And from Joan Rivers comes word that she flew on such a small airline recently, the plane was very late taking off because the pilot had trouble loading the luggage.

Japan Has Tab

There may not be too many people around who remember The Tab Hunter Show, an NBC offering of several seasons ago which starred Tab as a carefree bachelor surrounded by beautiful women.

However, the series is currently running in Japan under the title, "I'll Teach You the ABC of How to Woo." Maybe the title sounds better in Japanese.

The cartoon series Atom Ant is also playing in Japan as "Ant of Marvelous Strength." The Deputy, Henry Fonda's old series is called "A Silver Star Which Shines on the Chest."

Today's Picks

6:30-7:30 (NBC) — The Bell Telephone Hour is in a holiday mood with "Christmas Through the Ages." Florence Henderson is hostess for a program filled with songs by herself and singers Mary Costa, Anita Gillette and Bruce Yarnell. There is also a ballet by John Butler.

Li/Tronic

FPE

by Federal Pacific

Now electric heat offers even greater room-by-room comfort and convenience. Federal Pacific's exclusive Li/Tronic Thermostat has an automatic feature that remembers for you to turn the heat down. As lights are switched off, or sun-light fades, rooms automatically cool to the set-back temperature. Li/Tronic's photoelectric cell never forgets. In the morning, temperatures automatically return to normal.

And it's done with less cost than expensive master-control set-back systems. No expensive control circuit wiring. And, you have an average savings in operating costs of 7½% over other electric heat systems.

FPE exclusive Li/Tronic replaces any existing electric heat thermostat. For a demonstration, call us today.

Movies on Video Work, But Never Other Way Round

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Much has been written about how the movie companies supply movies to television. Less publicized is the fact that television is also providing features for theaters.

'Dragnet' Only Hit

This is nothing new. The film companies tried to cash in on the immense success of stars and programs in the new medium. Only one was a success.

TV Scout Reports

Woody Allen Myth

Woody Allen on his education: "It was dismal. I went to a series of schools for mentally disturbed teachers."

Long Vacation

Fess Parker, who has many interests besides his Daniel Boone series, was asked by friends why he never took a vacation. He reminded them that before the series he didn't act for three and a half years. "I took a vacation," he says.

Never on Air

Many television fans insist they have seen Gone With the Wind on their home screen. They haven't of course, since the MGM film has never been released to television. And it may never be. MGM just let one TV network boss know that he can have the picture for one showing in 1968. But they are asking $10 million.

Benny Has Power

Jack Benny, who loves to laugh at other comic's jokes about him, says the best one he ever heard on the subject of his frugality came from Phil Harris. Phil said, "Jack Benny is the only guy I ever knew who could eat one peanut."

Tame Animals

Leonard Kaufman, who produces Daktari, says he thinks the reason Daktari is such a success with the audience is because the animals on the series perform such amazing tricks. Getting them to do so is not hard, he says. "Animals are tamed and not trained. Give them affection and they'll do anything for you."

Rises to Occasion

When viewers see the Chrysler-sponsored Tournament of Roses Parade on CBS-TV on New Year's Day, they don't see a lady named Mary Baker, who is the coordinator of the parade. But one year they would have missed some of the telecast, if it hadn't been for her. Seems a TV cameraman was suspended 100 feet over the parade in a gondola under a crane. Since it can be cold in Southern California early on a January morning, his hands got so cramped that when he got the signal to operate his camera he found his fingers too stiff. Mrs. Baker sensed the trouble, quickly got into another gondola and was carried aloft so she could operate the camera until the TV man's circulation was restored. A woman who rises to the occasion, you might say.

"Dragnet" was expanded to feature length and it grossed $5 million, a whopping figure in 1954.

Other efforts failed. Warner Bros. starred Milton Berle, then Mr. Television, in "Always Leave Them Laughing," but he didn't. Features were made of "Our Miss Brooks," "The Lone Ranger," "The Goldbergs," etc., all with scant success.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz scored in "The Long, Long Trailer" at the peak of their television fame, though they did not play their "I Love Lucy" roles. Another film with the pair, "Forever Darling," was a failure.

Trying Again

Now the studios are taking another flier at mining film subjects from television. The most successful venture has been MGM's conversion of segments of "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." into big-screen attractions. The popularity of stars Robert Vaughn and David McCallum has helped push the features to greater income than some of the studio's regular movies.

20th Century-Fox followed suit with a release of the first three segments of the defunct television series, "Blue Light," which starred Robert Goulet. They were released under the title, "I Deal in Danger." Fox also attempted a feature-length version of the freak hit, "Batman," but it failed to create bat-millions at the boxoffice.

Nor did Universal score impressively with its feature, "Munsters Go Home," filmed after the series had been canceled. Columbia aimed its cartoon feature, "The Man Called Flintstone," at the kiddie market with middling results.

With rare exceptions, these movies seldom score a bonanza at the nation's theaters. But they help fill the bottom half of double features. Theater men find feature product so scarce nowadays, they'll consider anything—even if it has played on television.
